CAVES OMITTED FROM THE ABOVE LIST:

Medina County: Zuberboeller's Cave (654)
Travis County: Salamander Cave (655)
Val Verde County: Damp Cave (656)
Scorpion Cave (657)

All of the caves in the above list fit the requirements set up by the Texas Speleological Survey as to exactly what a cave is. According to the definition of a cave by the Survey it must be at least 25' long or 15' deep, while the entrance must be narrower than the cave is long or deep. Caves may be formed either by outright solution or as the result of boulders having fallen to form an overhangin, partially enclosed, chamber. The above list also includes known caves which through one means or another have been closed; it does not include caves which have never had an accessible entrance.

It is requested that each person who examines the list will make notes, either on the copy or elsewhere, as to the caves listed. These notes should be concerned primarily with second names for a cave, caves not included on the list, and caves which are listed twice or more under different names.

The purpose of the list is to give us a sound groundwork for a proper Survey of the caves of Texas. The information gained by having a complete list of caves will enable us to know what gaps in locations and descriptions of these same caves exist and possibly who to contact for further information. This list will be followed up by a systematic collection of all cave rumors in the files of the Survey, as well as a list of caves about which little is known.
